

Rain, rain, go away

You have three friends over to play and your parents are moving house. This means that all of your games and toys have been packed away! This is OK because you were planning to play outside. To your dismay, it begins to rain when your friends arrive!

The only things you have are a pencil and paper, cardboard, tape and your imagination!

You decide to create a game that you can play indoors with your friends. You decide that the best way to begin is to come up with a theme, like Harry Potter.

- ◆ Create a game that you can play indoors with only the materials on hand.
- ◆ Brainstorm things usually found with a game (game board, spinners, and dice).
- ◆ How will the game begin?
- ◆ How does the game end? (How does a player win?)
- ◆ What is the objective of the game?
- ◆ What are the rules?
- ◆ Create obstacles for your game.

This is the last time you will see your friends for a while, so you want to make your last day together as exciting as possible. Get started!
