

Eye-catching titles

Usually titles are written across the top of the page, but there's nothing to say they have to be.

Here are four ways you might design your title page to catch the reader's eye.

Make up titles for six stories you have written or would like to write.

Design a title page for each here:

EXTRA!
With a friend, look for 10 different ways titles are shown on the covers of published books. Choose which you like best and try to work out why you like them.