

Ideas in words

Brilliant Poets write about everything under the sun. Sometimes they have good ideas that they want to tell the world about and they think the idea would be better said in a poem than in a story or any other way.

Write your idea first, then turn it into a poem.
For example:

An idea like this...

I think it would be a good idea if we didn't have to go to school every day. We could go on Saturdays and Sundays and have the rest of the week off to play or do more interesting things...

...could turn into a poem like this.

Two days at school
And five days off
What an idea!
Do not scoff!
Much less work
And lots more play
Good idea!
What d'you say?

Write an idea here, then turn it into a short poem.

EXTRA!

Swap an idea with a friend and write another poem for each other.

Remember, the poem doesn't have to rhyme!
