

Later Sam called for Danny and they jogged to the Scout Hut.

Sam told Danny what his mum had said.

Danny said it was a good idea. His mum had been too busy to get his red top dry. It wasn't in his kit bag with his training strip.

"It's in here!" he laughed, and held up a plastic supermarket bag!

Eddie's old bike was outside the Scout Hut.

Eddie was in the big room. Sam and Danny gave him their red tops. He ticked their names off his list.

"Thanks, lads," he said. "Oh, and please thank your mums too. Some of the others have forgotten their tops or not got them washed. I don't know what Mr Bond will say."

Sam grinned. He told Eddie about the new kit lady.

"Great!" said Eddie. "I'll tell the rest of the team later. Thank your mum for me, will you?"

Sam and Danny went to get changed. Foz was standing in the middle of the changing room in his long shirt. He was going over yesterday's goal again.

"Watch it, Sam!" he said.

They were good friends now that they played on the team together.
